The flow of information nowadays is incredibly huge: you can choke on the TV programs, websites, newspapers and books. However, some of these information flows are useless and even worse – destructive.

People should read useful and necessary information for the successful start in the life. After finishing a high school, most young people do not know what they can do. They have no idea what their lives devote to. At the same time the top priority for the most of the teenagers is to find a job and making money and this became the main goal in youth's and adults' life. Children have no longer an enthusiasm to study at school .

How do you think we can motivate young people to perceived and purposeful studying and How to start their internal "engine" for the acceleration to a successful life?

My life has been full of challenges and obstacles. However, I realized that life is not about the smartest person or the strongest person, or even the richest person. Rather, life is about having the tenacity and the persistence to Never Give Up.

As I contemplated various things to teach my son, I thought about how grateful I am for the myriad of lessons my father taught me. I wouldn't be half the man I am had it not been for him. But there is one lesson, for which I am extremely appreciative, that stands apart from the others. To do good to others.

How would it feel to be a leader that has affected the lives of millions and millions to come? What do you say to yourself when you know you've taken a swing at history. Even after hearing the phrase 'dream big' many times (or more) over the course of their life, most people still don't get it.

Whether it's quality time, playtime, game time, family time, me-time, real time, study time, daytime, nighttime, wrong time, or the right time, one thing is for sure~ sometimes it seems as if life is all about time, doesn't it?

When people talk about work, school, life, and other people they are usually talking about what's wrong. When someone has a strange look on his face what do people usually ask? What's wrong? And when something important is about to happen what do people think about? Everything that could go wrong.

Many moons ago, do you remember people asking you "What do you want to be when you grow up?" Do you still have that in mind?

One of the biggest mistakes people make is spending too much time looking for the big opportunity or the perfect timing to do something.

Self-development is the cultivation of your potential. Consistent self-development is the path to noteworthy achievement and fulfillment in the personal and professional aspects of your life. Most problems and challenges could be solved and overcome much more efficiently IF you would only focus more on the solution.

“No matter how old you are now. You are never 2 young or 2 old for success or going after what you want. And this requires discipline,

People who have a habit of self-discipline (the discipline comes primarily from within and it is "grooved"). They typically finish things they start. They are capable of facing and dealing with brutal facts, even about themselves. They are willing to adhere to the organization's systems for getting work done. They have a passion for doing certain types of work or advancing certain purposes.

Do you even realize that you can actually speak your life into existence. People don't realize the power of the mind and how easily your thoughts attracts the things you get in your life. Whether good or bad as far as where you stand in your life.

So many people want the juice but they don't want to grow the tree, pick the fruit, peel the orange, juice it, and bottle it up. I hope you are inspired ,motivated and future focused.

I hope this few words shall help you to find that spark of motivation from within that helps you on your journey to fulfill your dreams.

Thank you
